JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY SAYS ONLY PRESIDENT CAN END COLORADO WAR

Washington, May 28.—"Colorado sits on an industrial volcano. The situation has got beyond the mere question of a strike. Lindsey. "Accordingly I have been asked to come to Washington and endeavor to make this clear to the president. If he does not take hold of the situation we can see nothing ahead but further violence, bloodshed and a terrible loss of life and property."

Judge Ben B. Lindsey gave his views on the strike situation upon his arrival from Colorado. He is accompanied by Mrs. Lee Champion of Denver, member of the relief committee; Mrs. Pearl Jolly, "heroine of the battle of Ludlow," a Red Cross nurse who was shot at by the militiamen while carrying food and water to the beleaguered women and children in the Ludlow tent colony; Mrs. Mary Petrucci, Mrs. M. PROBING NEW HAVEN DEALINGS Decision to Scrutinize the Papers Reached After Conference Between Commissioner Folk and Counsel For the Morgan Banking House—Difference of Opinion Develops as to the Extent of the Inquiry.

New York, May 28.—Books and papers of J. P. Morgan & Company relating in any way to the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and its subsidiary companies are being examined by the interstate commerce commission.

The decision to open the books of the banking house was reached after Commissioner Folk had been in conference for several hours with Francis Lynde Stetson, Allen Wardwell and Dwight E. Moreau, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Company. The offer to open the books was made by Mr. Morgan in his statement of Tuesday, covering the recent testimony of Charles S. Mellen respecting his management of the New Haven railroad.

Mr. Folk came on from Washington and was closeted for two hours and a half with Mr. Stetson at the Waldorf. A difference of opinion developed as to the extent of the examination proposed to be made. It appeared Mr. Morgan's offer was made with certain reservations that he made to Mr. Folk to strike at the effectiveness of the inquiry, but Mr. Folk and his examiners shall decide for themselves what books and papers in the possession of Mr. Morgan's firm relating to the New Haven shall be examined, and that the examination shall be thorough. The expert examiners believe that it will take six months to go over the books and papers. By beginning today they expect to be able by next week to present a preliminary report of some kind. This will be used as a guide by Mr. Folk on his examination of directors

THE BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Chicago, May 28.—A resolution favoring study of the Bible in the public schools and urging churches to petition state legislatures for laws that will bring about the desired condition was adopted by the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Its aim, as expressed in the language of the report was "that legislation may be ordained permitting, as optional or otherwise, the reading of the Bible in the public schools, or recognition of the Bible for credit or otherwise, in the curriculum of our educational institutions." A resolution urging the establishment of a permanent tribunal at The Hague with a view of abolishing future wars was approved.

NEW YORK HIT THREE KILLED

New York, May 28.—A thunder squall dashed across the Hudson river and hit this old town amidst things that were not nalled down or fastened gave way, and the landscape was liberally sprinkled with signs, parts of roofs and copings. Three men were killed by lightning in the metropolitan district. One of the deaths occurred in Brooklyn, one in New York and one in Two Bridges. N. J. Eleven persons were injured as the direct result of the storm. Three men died from the heat and 21 prostrations were reported. Before the blow the mercury reached the notch of 91 degrees, beating all performances for 35 years for the date.

TESTIFIES IN DAMAGE SUIT

New York, May 28.—Colonel Roosevelt testified before E. Day Clark of Binghamton, sitting as a special commissioner in the $200,000 suit brought by A. D. Wales, a Binghamton lawyer, against John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that he was prepared to send federal troops into Pennsylvania in 1902 if necessary in order to bring about his plans for the settlement of the great anthracite coal strike.

Wales is suing on the ground that he proposed the plan which led ultimately to the settlement of differences between the operators and the miners.

Colonel Roosevelt got down to business at the start-off when Harvey D. Hinman of counsel for John Mitchell asked him to tell the causes which led to the settlement of the strike.

"A very little time convinced me," he said, "that the strike was serious and full of menace to the country, especially to the east. There was danger of a coal famine in the winter, and in the summer and fall I carefully considered what I should do. I made up my mind that I would have to take drastic action unless the miners and the operators got together. I conferred with both sides and found the attitude of Mr. Mitchell and the miners to be entirely reasonable. The attitude of the operators was entirely unreasonable and offensive."

The colonel said that he informed Senator Quay of Pennsylvania that he intended to take drastic action and that the people of the east were going to get coal and get it right away.

He declared he told Quay that he wanted him to arrange with Governor Stone to make a formal demand for troops at any time that he, the president, might advise him that he was ready to act. He also told General Scofield that he was planning to send to Pennsylvania only a general who would regard the situation as that of practical civil war and who would consent to take his orders from the president only, as commander in chief of the army. The colonel testified that General Scofield agreed to all that.

The colonel related how he appointed a commission with ex-President Cleveland as chairman to investigate the complaints of the miners and adjust matters, if possible, but the operators refused to come to terms.

He recalled that Robert Bacon and George W. Perkins, who represented the views of the late J. P. Morgan regarding the situation, had visited him, but he did not remember that Mr. Morgan had called upon him. He said that Mr. Perkins, Mr. Bacon and Messrs. Root, Knox and Paine, members of his cabinet, had advanced plans looking to the settlement of the strike, but none of the suggestions appealed to him. "I told them," he said, "that if they didn't agree to arbitration I would settle the business myself."

WILL HOLD ANTI LAWS

Interstate Trade Commission May Be Created, However.

Washington, May 28.—There is a well defined movement in the senate committee on interstate commerce to put over all anti-trust legislation except the authorization of the interstate trade commission until next session. A motion to that effect is now pending in the committee, submitted by Senator Saulsbury of Delaware, and it was stated that the president would acquiesce in the plan to limit the legislative program if, in the judgment of his party's leaders in congress, it is deemed the wiser course to pursue.

It has been pointed out to the president that the interstate trade commission could investigate during the summer and fall and report to congress early in the regular session that meets in December on the necessities for legislation on holding companies, interlocking directorates and overcapitalization. Senator Cummins of Iowa was said by one of his colleagues in the committee to be opposed to the plan for limiting the trust legislative program for this session.

An erroneous report was circulated around the senate to the effect that the interstate commerce committee in executive session would vote down Senator Saulsbury's motion.

HARDING OUT FOR SENATOR

Formally Announces Candidacy For Republican Nomination.

Columbus, O., May 28.—Warren G. Harding of Marion county made formal entry into the Republican senatorial contest last night. He issued a short statement expressing amity toward his opponents. Deferring until his entry petitions are filed "such declarations as are seemly," he informed the friends who have been circulating the petitions for weeks that they will not be ignored. He considers three declarations to be seemly now and makes them. They are that he will support the candidate named at the primary, whether that candidate be Foraker, Cole or Harding; that he has not entered in a spirit of antagonism to either of his opponents, but merely to test whether the party voters think he or one of the others the best candidate to aid in bringing about a Republican victory, and that he will not be the candidate of any leader or group of leaders.

Republicans who read Mr. Harding's statement said the new candidate evidently was seeking to dissipate any impression that he had entered merely as Dan R. Hanna's anti-Foraker candidate or at the behest of state leaders, who wanted "some man to beat Foraker" or to force him out of the race.

DAYTON FIRE

Dayton, O., May 28.—Fire of unknown origin threatened the entire block surrounded by Second and Third streets on the north and south, Canal and Madison on the east and west, and resulted in a loss estimated at $100,000. WIRE FLASHES

John Thomas, a young negro, accused of having attacked a white girl, was mutilated by a mob at Spartanburg, S. C., and returned to jail. George V. Jordan was killed at Burgaw, N. C., his home, by his sister, Mrs. George Sand, who declared that Jordan threatened to kill her and another sister, following a quarrel.

"Until further notice, kisses implanted in public places cost $7.50 each," said Judge Pogo of the Milwaukee police court, fining Clara Young and Emily Harper $15 each for spotlight spooning.

At Ridgeway, Pa., Mrs. John Kane "risked" $59 for an option on 300 acres of land eight weeks ago. Since then a gas gusher has been struck on the property and she has been offered $200,000 for the land.

While attempting to arrest Lincoln S. Wyman, whose dog he had just killed because the dog tax had not been paid, Howard P. Berry, a constable at Livermore Falls, Me., was fatally shot. Wyman later ended his life.

Ironton, O., May 28.—Mayor A. J. Hannon received a check for $21,755 from the D. T. & I. company in payment for the loss of his leg in an accident while he was an engineer in the employ of the company. Mexican Conditions Improved

Conditions in Mexico seem now, for the first time since the inauguration of the revolution against Madero, to be assuming a form which promises an early cessation of hostilities and the beginning of a reign of peace and quiet in the strife-torn republic.

There never has been an international complication, at least not one to which the United States was a party, which furnished the surprising and sudden changes of conditions that the present Mexican turmoil has furnished, and it would surprise no one who has followed the trend of events to see conditions undergo another change within the next four and twenty hours.

Huerta's rule seems assuredly tottering to its final fall and every condition at present existing could, if with any other nation and any other people, be relied upon as the beginning of the end. If any other people were in the condition, the Mexicans are today, it might be stated with almost positive certainty that Huerta would either be a fugitive in foreign lands or a claimant for the protection of the United States within the next week.

Once more the watchful waiting policy of President Wilson promises to be crowned with success, and once more a bloody conflict with Mexico promises to be averted.

The different political factions in Mexico seem to be coming to their sober senses and to a full realization that the United States government is quietly determined that Huerta must abdicate and that no other like him can assume arbitrary control.

Carranza, Huerta, Villa and the other political leaders of Mexico seem, at last to fully realize that if Mexico is to retain her identity as a republic there must be a real and an honest and a genuine breaking up of the enormous estates held by the favored classes and a just distribution of the wealth of the land among the toiling many.

Mexicans can accomplish the desired end and build up a middle class, in Mexico, if they will, and this government is determined that they shall do so.

No republic can exist in peace where the great majority of the people are paupers and a very small per cent of the population is princely rich. The time has come when this nation will not, by inaction, consent to a change of masters and a continuation of present conditions in Mexico.

The enormous fortunes possessed by the very few in Mexico are founded upon a feudal system of landed estates which civilized people have long out-grown and to the existence of which no people on earth will consent.

The Mexican people have endured outrageously unjust property conditions to exist longer than the people of any other land, but that they have not quietly submitted is abundantly attested by the fact that they have over three hundred times revolted against the government which permitted them.

At last, it would seem from present conditions, a realization of the fact that permanent peace can only come with the inauguration of new era in Mexico, has come upon the political leaders, and they have been very materially aided in arriving at that realization by the announced determination of the United States to see to it that a new regime is, in fact, ushered in.

Farming Will Never Be Sufficiently Profitable to Maintain Present Living Cost

By Dean DAVENPORT of University of Illinois College of Agriculture

THE United States cannot look to agriculture to reduce the cost of living, for food will continue to increase in cost. Instead the country must cut down on its expenditures for clothing, housing and amusements.

SPEAKING FOR AGRICULTURE, I AM READY TO AVER THAT FARMING WILL NEVER BE SUFFICIENTLY PROFITABLE TO MAINTAIN THE STANDARD OF LIVING WHICH THE PUBLIC IS BEING LED TO ESTABLISH. IT IS THE UNEARNED INCREMENT ON LAND WHICH THE PRESENT GENERATION IS SPENDING AND WHICH WE ARE TEACHING OUR CHILDREN TO SPEND BEFORE THEY HAVE LEARNED MUCH ABOUT THE BUSINESS OF EARNING.

Poetry For Today

MAN WITH THE SLIPPERS.

"I am weary, I am weary," said the man in tones of care,
"As I don my carpet slippers and sink down into a chair.
Each day as I proceed to get acquainted with the news
The way I'm whirled around the earth invites a case of blues.
I linger in Alaska long enough to have a chill,
And then I jump to Mexico and get another thrill.
I sit to oriental lands and do the best I can.
To understand just what may be expected from Japan.
To Africa I wander. There's a sign upon the shore:
'Not Here. Try South America For Uncle Theodore.'
And then I pause in England and endeavor to find out
Exactly what some arguments in progress are about.
I am weary, I am weary as the sun is sinking low,
For every date line makes me jump a thousand miles or so.
Though he may not plot the ocean or be foremost in the strife,
The man in carpet slippers leads a most exciting life."

LONDON'S UGLY CHURCH.

The First Sacred Edifice in the World to Be Lighted by Gas.

Readers of "Our Mutual Friend" will remember that Dickens gives a whimsical description of St. John's, Westminster, when referring to the home of the doll's dressmaker, Miss Jenny Wren.

"In this region," he writes, "are a certain little street called Churchstreet and a certain little blind square called Smith square, in the center of which last retreat is a very hideous church, with four towers at the four corners, generally resembling some petrified monster, frightful and gigantic, on its back, with its legs in the air."

Lord Chesterfield said St. John's reminded him of an elephant with its legs in the air, and Charles Mathews likened it to a dining table in the same position.

St. John's enjoys the distinction of being the first sacred edifice in the world to be lit by gas. As may be imagined, the introduction of the new illuminant was deeply resented by many conservative spirits, some of whom went so far as to describe it as a sacrilege.—Manchester (England) Courier.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Food in Warm Weather.
With the advent of warm weather diseases of the breathing organs, such as bronchitis, pneumonia and the like, which claim their greatest number of victims during winter weather, give way to diseases and disorders of the digestive organs, such as summer diarrhea, ptomaine and the various kinds of food poisonings. The winter diseases are due mostly to the breathing of bad air, the warm weather ailments to the consumption of bad food.

People should make sure that they are served only with fresh, clean, pure food all the year around, but extra care must be taken in this regard during the warm weather months, when the risk of receiving tainted or unsound foodstuffs is greatly increased.

Ptomaine poisoning is a serious and distressing illness, which can only be avoided by the utmost care in the selection of meat, fish and other sea food and especially of canned meats.

CHAUTAUQUA TO HAVE DAY FOR THE FARMER

Burbank's Assistant Will Describe Plant Wizard at Work.

Every agriculturist in this and adjoining counties will be interested in the announcement that Prof. Henry A. Adrian, a co-worker with the celebrated Luther Burbank, will give a lecture on "Luther Burbank and His Work" at the forthcoming Chautauqua, illustrating his address with many interesting anecdotes of Mr. Burbank, explanations of the work being done in the latter's nurseries, and practical illustrations by means of specimen plants carried with him. At the conclusion of his lecture Mr. Adrian will preside at a round table discussion, at which time all persons in his audience are invited to ask such questions concerning Mr. Burbank's work as they desire.

That this will be a feature event of the Chautauqua week, full as the program is of good things, goes without saying. For a number of years Lyceum and Chautauqua managers have made every possible inducement to Mr. Burbank to devote a portion of his time to the platform, but the latter has been so engrossed in his experiments that he has turned a deaf ear to all entreaties. "I'll do the next best thing," said Burbank. "I'll let you have Adrian. And I'm not

And so Professor Adrian took up a task, particularly happy to him, because of his intimate personal acquaintance with and appreciation of Mr. Burbank, that of acquainting the world with the marvelous work being done in the California workshop of the plant wizard. In three years Adrian has made the Burbank lectures among the most popular in America, and he has been the means of exciting renewed interest in agricultural and fruit growing pursuits throughout the nation. A gifted speaker, he gives perhaps more vividly than Burbank himself could do it, a clear insight into the methods used by the man who has added almost without limit to the knowledge of plant life in this country and pointed the way to an almost unlimited improvement upon the slow processes of nature. To increase the quantity and improve the quality of human food is the biggest economic problem which the nation is facing today, and Prof. Adrian shows how Luther Burbank is helping to solve the problem. To every man interested in agricultural pursuits, to whatever extent, this lecture will be worth the price of a season ticket to the Chautauqua.

SIG. JOSEPH QUINTANO.

SIG. JOSEPH QUINTANO, who will direct his famous Royal Italian Band in two concerts here during Chautauqua week, sometimes is in a thoughtful frame of mind. Usually pictured in action, the above picture shows him in repose.

"I prefer to play before Chautauqua audiences to any other kind," he says. "They are more appreciative, and they pay attention to the program, which isn't true of any other summer audience."

The Process of Dry Milk

While the milk is new (still warm) it is turned into a large tank from which it comes in a fine spray, falling on swiftly revolving red-hot copper cylinders; just before it touches the cylinders all the moisture leaves it and it falls in the form of tiny white flakes on white silk trays; it is dried again in 150 degrees of heat for two hours then packed in air-tight barrels. All of this is done in one of the big Milk-Chocolate factories, and everyone knows their cows are tested and rated AA, A1. We add the water ourselves and use it in our famous

All of this accounts for the rich, full, "creamy" taste and texture of Butter Krust Bread.

MOSQUITO PEST HERE TO ANNOY CITIZENS

Early Appearance of Dangerous Pest Which Proved So Annoying Last Summer, Is Regarded With Misgiving.

STAGNANT PAINT CREEK IDEAL BREEDING PLACE

Washingtonians Anxious to Have Prompt Action Taken to Eliminate Breeding Places and Thus Eradicate the Pest Which is Liable to Cause Outbreak of Typhoid or Other Dangerous Epidemic in This City.

Well, they are here again! Yes, the mosquitoes—very persistent, very active and apparently possessing much of the same vitality of their ancestors who swooped down in great hordes upon the unsuspecting citizens of Washington last summer, and created pandemonium, as well as a ready sale for oil of citronella, pennyroyal, close woven screens, and a dozen and one other articles calculated to relieve the torture inflicted by the hungry creatures.

So far the mosquitoes are not as numerous as last season—fact is they are still somewhat scattering, but still in numbers sufficient to make local citizens sit up at the hour of midnight and take particular notice that they have unwelcome visitors who are thirsty for human blood.

The presence of the pest so early in the season indicates that unless radical steps are taken by the Board of Health to eradicate the insects, that before the summer is over Washington will once more be in the grasp of the annoying and dangerous mosquito pest, and the ability of the mosquito to carry typhoid fever and other dreaded and dangerous diseases, is well known, and an epidemic due to mosquito bites is not at all impossible, but highly probable.

The recent drought has resulted in Paint creek, with all of its sewer filth and unwholesome refuse, becoming stagnant and offensive, with countless pools where the mosquitoes may breed by the millions, and an application of oil or other preparation that will effectively prevent the mosquito eggs from hatching, is urgently in demand.

Hundreds of Washington citizens have not forgotten their terrible experiences with the mosquito pest during the warm nights last summer, and if it requires an outlay of $100 for oil or other material to make the breeding of mosquitoes impossible, Washington citizens would deem it one of the biggest bargains ever secured by the city, it is believed.

Meanwhile local citizens will be on the lookout for the pestiferous nocturnal visitors who creep through window screens as if they did not exist.

COMPLETE LIST OF WORKERS FOR BIG FINANCE CAMPAIGN

List Contains Approximately 200 Well Known Citizens, and Campaign Opens Next Wednesday, Following Banquet Tuesday Night—Large Number of Prominent Citizens Preparing Themselves for Active Work in Placing Local Young Men's Christian Association on Proper Financial Footing.

Action is imminent. The warriors are adjusting their war paint and fighting feathers. The big banquet will be held next Tuesday evening and then will begin the spirited campaign of the Y. M. C. A. to secure the balance of the $25,000 so necessary to its continued existence and for which a determined but not a highly successful effort was made in the winter.

The campaign will begin immediately after the banquet, which will be attended by nearly 200 men of Washington, including virtually all of Washington's most prominent citizens, but it is emphatically stated that it shall not commence before the conclusion of the banquet. The words, "No solicitation of funds at this dinner" appear on the corner of every ticket and the workers are assured of pocketbook comfort at least to start with. The campaign will continue eight days and during that time will be the all absorbing interest of Washington. A big clock centrally located will show each day what the workers have done after they have made their reports at the noon-day lunches.

More than 150 men are engaged in this earnest endeavor to secure funds and are arranged in teams of not more than ten men each in two divisions, the business men's and young men's divisions. The names of the workers follow:

SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

H. A. Montgomery, of Martinsville, traveling salesman for the Clinton Supply Company, and well known in this city, nearly met death on the Wilmington pike near Sabina, Tuesday afternoon, when the steering gear of his automobile snapped while he was going at a high rate of speed, and the machine plunged over an embankment and struck a telephone pole.

Montgomery was horribly cut about the face, shoulders and arms, and his chest was bruised and crushed where he was pinned in the seat by the broken steering gear.

He was driving a Ford machine, and it was reduced to scraps. The front axle was twisted about the telephone pole, the engine was dislodged and smashed, and the body of the car bent and twisted.

Montgomery was taken to Sabina where he was placed under the care of a physician. He was not yet out of danger, according to last reports.

80-YR-OLD MAN STANDS ALONE

Mr. Wm. Davis, who formerly resided five miles south of this city on the Rock Mills road, has spent the past few days the guest of his son, H. B. Davis, near Johnson's Crossing, and his sister, Jane, in this city. He will return to his home near Marion, Ind., Friday.

Mr. Davis is in very good health at this time. Last winter, however, he was bedfast for nine weeks, suffering from a stomach and bowel complaint. All of his life he has been strong and healthy and loved to work early and late.

In his youth he fixed his mind on high ideals and never wavered. He is one of the very few persons reaching old age that can truthfully say that in all his life he has never chewed tobacco, smoked pipe or cigar, drank liquor of any kind, drank tea or coffee, played cards, pool or billiards, danced, fished or hunted. Mr. Davis further says he never belonged to a lodge of any kind, never saw a baseball game and only once visited a theater.

He preferred to stick to his work and found his enjoyment in farming, stock-raising and providing for his family. His influence was always given to furthering the interests of the church.

Mr. Davis will be 80 years of age on October 21. His wife, who was Margaret Draper, daughter of the late Richard Draper, of near Staunton, will reach the age of 77 next February 22. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have two sons and three daughters, H. B. Davis, near this city; Wilbur, at Marion, Ind.; Mrs. C. C. Cory, near Springfield; Mrs. Mary Behem, Gas City, Ind., and Mrs. Alice Tudor, Rosburg, Ind.

BAKER DEPOSITS GUARANTEE FUND

Eliminating the inconveniences of having two contractors on the job, George W. Baker, president of the Springfield-Washington traction railway, yesterday paid to the city manager $700 as a guarantee that the work of improving South Limestone street would be done according to the specifications and that work would be started as soon as possible.

The request that such payment or guarantee be given was made by the city manager several days ago. In a meeting yesterday it was agreed by Mr. Baker that he should so guarantee his work of relaying his tracks and paving between them and the portion to be paved by the city.

It is believed that by having guaranteed his work, Mr. Baker has insured greater rapidity on the job. There will be only one man with which to deal in giving instructions. Contractor Ryan, who has the job, said yesterday he would be able to start work within a few days.—Springfield Sun.

CINCINNATIANS RAISE $500,000

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—"What other cities have done, Cincinnati will do."

Put to the acid test during the final hours of the Y. M. C. A. campaign for a $500,000 building fund, the Queen City of the West was not found wanting. When midnight of the final day, allotted to the crusade for a new building to replace the one condemned by the Building Commission was drawing near, the 300 workers did not loose heart, but hoped against hope that Cincinnati was not to be numbered among the cities of America that cannot do great things.

At the final moment, when the workers were at a tension and the possibility of losing all of the $490,000 seemed imminent, it was announced that Mrs. Mary Emery, who previously had subscribed $50,000 toward the cause, had agreed in the early afternoon to make up whatever deficit that existed at the end of the last day of the campaign. Mrs. Emery's generous addition to her other contribution was to have been given out when all other sources had failed, but at 11 o'clock she telephoned to James Orr, chairman of the Business Men's Committee, telling him to relieve the minds of his workers with word of her decision, and to tell them all to go home to enjoy the first night of undisturbed slumber since the opening of the campaign almost two weeks ago.

Chas. P. Taft subscribed $25,000 on the last day.

Over five thousand two hundred women are attending universities in Germany this year, being five times as large as it was four years ago.

No Elbow Grease Needed!

WITH most vacuum cleaners, the harder you work and push—the better results you get. It's largely a matter of "elbow grease." There's one real Suction Sweeper whose operation does not require any work at all on your part—

THE HOOVER SUCTION SWEEPER

All that is necessary with the Hoover is to roll it gently over the floor surface. It electrically removes every particle of surface dirt and dust, takes up the adhering threads, lint, hair, etc., and then goes deeper and gets the sand and heavy particles of dirt embedded in the body of the rugs and carpets.

We're demonstrating Hoovers this week; come in and watch this wonder worker. Suggest some real tests for it yourself.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR MURRAY SELLS OUT

Well Known Local Undertaker Disposes of Undertaking Business to Mr. S. W. White, Who Takes Charge Immediately and Will Remain in the Murray Quarters.

Mr. S. W. White, of Hamilton, O., has purchased Mr. C. H. Murray's undertaking business and will continue to conduct it in the same building, on Court street, in which it has so long been established.

Mr. White comes highly recommended from Hamilton, where he was a member of the C. W. Gath Undertaking Co., a foremost establishment of that city. He is a graduate of the Clark's school of embalming in Cincinnati, and has had 12 years of experience in the business, being located in Russellville, O., previous to his locating in Hamilton.

Mr. White purposes to install new equipment in the early future. For the present Mr. Murray remains connected with him in the business, his future plans not being definitely decided.

Mr. Murray has had this change in view for some time, owing to his desire to locate in California, where his two sons reside, and he and his wife will probably leave for the West in the fall.

Their contemplated departure arouses the most sincere regret among a host of friends in this city, where both have been actively connected with manifold interests.

Mr. Murray has conducted a leading undertaking business in Washington for the past 25 years, with the exception of four years spent in California, and his professional ability and kindly, sympathetic personal interest combined to win for him a distinctive place in both his business and social relations.

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND SERVICES

Of simple beauty, and a tribute such as was worthy of the admirable woman and devoted mother, were the funeral services of Mrs. S. F. Johnson, held at the late residence, on North street Wednesday afternoon.

The home was inadequate to the immense gathering of relatives and friends, who assembled, many of them coming from quite a distance.

Rev. W. B. Gage, of the First Presbyterian church, officiated, following the opening service with a beautiful little address, appreciative of Mrs. Johnson's character and life, and the fragrant memory it will remain to comfort her children and grandchildren.

The services were closed with the reading of a hymn.

A long line of carriages accompanied the family to the Washington cemetery, for interment in the family lot.

Acting as pall-bearers were Messrs. T. H. Craig, S. E. Parrett, Henry Brownell, M. S. Daugherty, George Hitchcock, Roy McClure.

The floral remembrances were lovely and in great number. Among them were special designs from the P. & D. bank, a casket spray of white lilies; from the Presbyterian church a beautiful spray of snap dragons, cantebury bells and carnations, and casket spray from the Blue lodge, F. & A. M.

Among relatives here to attend the funeral were: Dr. Frank Peele, Mr. B. Peele, Mrs. Hoskins, Wilmington; Mrs. Geo. A. Barnes, Chattanooga, Tenn.; two granddaughters, Mrs. Bertha Trees, Laporte, Ind.; Miss Lucy Meek, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Gertrude Gray, Mr. Tulla Coin, Mrs. Maude Creamer, Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, Mrs. Hannah Creamer, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Creamer, Mrs. Ruth McMaisters, Mr. Roy Creamer, Messrs. Chas. and Eugene Creamer, Jeffersonville; Mrs. Carson West, a niece.

ARMY OFFICERS HERE AFTER LARGE SHIPMENT OF HORSES

Captain Whitside and Party Now in City Examining 75 Head of Choice Artillery and Remount Horses Purchased by Chas. Allen—Army Wants Washington to Supply 100 Horses Monthly.

Captain W. W. Whitside from the Fort Royal, Va., remount station, returned to Washington C. H. Wednesday, accompanied by officers and horsemen and spent the day at the sales pavilion inspecting 75 head of Fayette county equines collected by Mr. Charles Allen, Washington's prominent horseman and purchasing agent of the United States government.

The men were busy all day Wednesday and were unable to complete the examination which will be finished today. It is expected that the greater number of the animals offered will be taken.

With Captain Whitside are Dr. L. L. Hornbeck, of the Front Royal remount station; Messrs. J. A. Tallay and A. C. Gallard, prominent horsemen of Richmond, Va., and Captain H. W. Brown of the adjutant general's office, Columbus.

Captain Whitside stated yesterday that it was the desire of the government that Washington C. H., if possible, become a constant source of horse supply, furnishing about five carloads is equivalent to about ninety head and the income to be derived from such a shipment would be about $15,000.

It is the opinion of local horsemen that the needs of the government can be met and the maintenance of such a station here is apparently an established fact.

The price offered by the government, which is seeking both cavalry and artillery styled horses, is better than can be secured by possessors of this grade of animal generally, and the belief is that Fayette county, always a leader in the rearing of horses will become an even more industrious community in this respect.

The number of horses which will probably be purchased by the army men will be about double the first purchase of a few weeks ago.

Captain Whitside and party are guests of the Cherry.

HUERTA WILLING TO QUIT THE JOB

Report Says He Will Yield to Any One Mediators May Select.

WILL NOT BLOCK PEACE PLANS

Dictator Said to Have Specifically Committed Himself to Turn Over the Government to a Commission Composed of Prominent Members of the Various Factions in Mexico. Late Developments in the Situation.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, May 28. — Reports reaching here through private sources declare that President Huerta has specifically committed himself to turn over the government to a commission composed of prominent members of the various factions in the republic, such as has been suggested at the Niagara Falls peace conference. He is also said to have agreed to relinquish power to any successor which such a commission might select. The report further says that Huerta's determination has already been communicated to the Mexican delegates and probably directly to the Washington government.

In the capital the belief is held that the Mexican peace delegates will be named to represent the Huerta faction on the proposed commission and that they may return soon to Mexico City. It is also thought that possibly the representatives of the United States and the A. B. C. mediators may accompany them, and that the final plan for the restoration of peace and for a constitutional election may be drafted in Mexico City.

A. M. George, who has offices at 304 Walsh Building, Akron, was for many years a sufferer from stomach ailments. He tried a good many treatments and took many medicines. At last he found Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. The relief he sought came swiftly. He wrote: "It is wonderful what results I received. I haven't had a symptom of the old trouble that I suffered for several years. Mr. Felter, my neighbor, who sent for some claims that he is a different man altogether, and his wife, who has been in poor health for several years, thinks it is doing her good."

HUERTA GETS AMMUNITION

Washington, May 28. — President Huerta has finally succeeded in obtaining for his forces several million rounds of ammunition and a large consignment of machine guns and rifles. The Hamburg-American steamships Ypiranga and Bavaria have landed their cargoes of ammunition at Puerto Mexico. The Ypiranga's cargo, estimated at about 15,000,000 rounds of ammunition and more than 200 machine guns, has been landed. It is the identical cargo that the United States held up through the seizure of Vera Cruz. The cargo of the Bavaria, consisting of about 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition and a large consignment of carbines, was landed three days ago.

Officials of both the state and navy departments, when informed of the large additions to Huerta's war supplies, declared that the United States would have taken no steps to prevent their being landed even if it had been suspected beforehand that this was to be done. State department officials acknowledged that the Hamburg-American officials were clearly within their rights in landing the cargoes.

FIRED NOT A SINGLE SHOT

VILLA HAS 22,000 MEN

Torreon, Mexico, May 28.—Villa's army of nearly 22,000 men is moving southward on Zacatecas from Torreon, and the federal garrison will be attacked within five or six days. Villa himself left Torreon for the south. Since Monday troops have been steaming out of Torreon loaded with infantry, cavalry and artillery. For days repair crews have been at work repairing the Central railway, and the line is now ready for traffic as far as Lacerado, about two-thirds of the distance to Zacatecas. Every effort is being made to bar the federal avenue of escape southward.

Arletta In Paris

A Queer Introduction and the Result.

By F. A. COLLINS.

The ormolu clock on the mantel in the pretty drawing room at Auteuil, near Paris, with windows overlooking the garden, never slept, although its mistress, Mrs. Marion Bennings, did regularly every evening that her son and herself spent alone.

She was nodding now over a ribbon decorated basket containing some silk en hose she had been mending. The ormolu clock struck 11, and Otto, turning around, pushed a book off to the floor. The noise awoke Mrs. Bennings, who sat up with a start and remarked: "I am off to bed. What a stupid evening! I haven't heard you speak for an hour."

"You couldn't," said Otto. But as she stared at him indignantly he made haste to add, "Because I haven't spoken for an hour."

Mrs. Bennings got up slowly, and a letter fell from her lap. Otto hastened to pick it up. "You'd better read it," said his mother. "My cousin, Harry Jones, who is tremendously rich, writes that he is bringing his motherless daughter to Paris. Her name is Arletta, and I have heard she is pretty and accomplished. We must be very nice to them, particularly to the daughter. She is an only child."

"Then I congratulate her. I'm an only child too," remarked Otto.

"Her husband will be very fortunate. Don't you agree with me?"

"I'll withhold judgment till I see the young lady," said her son.

Left alone, Otto resumed the writing of his letter, which he was to address to a certain Celeste, and reflected that probably his mother was already planning to marry him to Arletta, the daughter of the wealthy Mr. Jones. But he made a bet with himself that it wouldn't come off.

Suddenly a woman's voice to the accompaniment of a guitar came through the open window. It was soft, rich, yet penetrating.

"La nuit ecoute et se penche sur l'oreille," etc.

"Hello!" said Otto. "A strolling singer, and a good voice too." He went to the window and called out, "Qui vive?"

"Oh, dear!" answered a woman's voice outside. "They told me you spoke English."

"So I do, after a fashion," said Otto, leaning out of the window. "Do you?"

"Why, of course I do," said the voice. "I'm English; at least I'm American."

"The deuce you are! What are you doing in our garden?"

"Come in at once. Here, give me your hand. It's only a step."

A pretty girl dressed in a Spanish costume, as if for a fancy ball, followed the hand. Her costume was rich and looked fresh, but she sank into a chair by the window, exclaiming:

"Oh, how good it seems to be able to sit down again in a chair!"

"Have you walked all the way from Paris?" asked Otto.

"From Paris and ever so much farther. My shoes are worn to shreds. See?"

She stretched out a tiny foot. Slipper and silken hose were in shreds.

"I've been singing for two days,"

said she, "and, see, that is all I took in"—showing him a few soles—"and I'm so hungry."

"Hungry?" cried Otto, dragging forward a little table with some cakes and wine. The girl looked at it longingly, remarking:

"Cake. That's what everybody offers me, and I'm dying for a banana sandwich."

"I'll forage for something more substantial!" cried Otto, starting toward the door.

"Not till I explain. Wait, please," said the girl. "Are you an American?"

"You bet I am!"

"Thank God!" she said. "Then you'll believe me. I'm not a beggar. I'm in hard luck. These are all the clothes, this is all the money, I have. I'm a stranger in Paris. Day before yesterday I arrived there and went to the Grand hotel to wait for my father. I had a maid, half a dozen trunks and a letter of credit. On the way from the Gare du Nord my maid ran away with the trunks and my letter. At the hotel they wouldn't believe me when I told them who I was. I hadn't a friend in Paris except some relatives of my father, whose address is in my vanished trunks. This masquerade suit hung in the closet of the hotel. I borrowed it and rented a guitar and started out to see if I could support myself. I had read of students in distress doing such things. I thought it would be a lark, but it has been awful. And I kept thinking I'd come up with some nice Americans. I was doing my very best, you see."

Otto agreed with her. He couldn't help it, she was so pretty. When he told her this she permitted him to go for a sandwich. In a minute he came back with some cold chicken and little biscuits, a small cheese and a pot of jelly.

"Will these things do?" he queried doubtfully.

"Do? Do?" she cried, with delight. "Watch me!"

She perched before the tray and began to eat ravenously. "This chicken is divine," she exclaimed. "What a nice fellow you are! But I can't eat much. I'm too worried."

"Worried?" said Otto. "What about?"

"I guess you'd be worried if you didn't know where you were going to sleep tonight."

"So I might," said he, "but where did you sleep last night?"

"In the Parc Monceau."

"In the park? All night?"

"All night, and there was such a wretch near me!"

"I'm sure there was," said Otto, hunting through his pockets. "Here, take this money. At least you won't have to sleep in the park."

"Then I can't sleep here?" pouted the girl. "You believe me, of course, but you have your few little doubts. My story is so absurd."

"I believe every word," said Otto, "but this hotel is expensive."

"I'll take the money," said the girl, "and as soon as my father comes he will repay you. You'll tell me your name. How he will thank you! Oh, if only the shops were open so I might buy some shoes and stockings. These are holes."

Otto ran to his mother's workbasket, which she had left behind her, and drew forth a pair of stockings. He offered them to the stranger, who received them with a shriek of joy.

"Could I borrow these?" she cried.

"Your wife's?"

"My mother's," said he. "I'm not married."

"Not married?" cried the girl, holding the silk hosiery aloft. "I thought—"

This was the scene that Mrs. Bennings witnessed as she opened the door in her drawing room to inquire why her son was still up. She paused a moment, then strode in, exclaiming:

"Otto!"

Otto jumped around guiltily, and the stranger screamed.

"Mother, let me explain," said Otto. "This lady—"

"Lady?" interrupted Mrs. Bennings. "What is this lady doing in my house unknown to me?"

"I'd better tell her," said the girl, rising to her feet. But the outraged matron, motioning her to be silent, said:

"I will deal only with my son. As for you, begone!"

"Are the stockings hers?" asked the girl of Otto. "Then I'll not wear them a single instant. I'd rather go barefoot. I would—indeed, I would. I'm very sorry, madam, that I intruded, but I was in great trouble. Until my father, who is to arrive this week—"

She stamped her feet into the ruined slippers and rose, half crying: "I'm going. I'm sorry I came in."

Otto was at her side. "I'll take you to a hotel. Let mother think what suits her. Come!"

He offered her his hand. The girl put hers in it, and they turned toward the window. But Mrs. Bennings cried:

"The door, if you please!"

The stranger went to the door and, turning, said, with dignity:

"I know that appearances are against me, but when my father reaches Paris we will call and explain. Won't you please tell me your name?"

Mrs. Bennings shook her head, but Otto answered promptly:

"My mother is Mrs. Marion Bennings."

The girl stared, then began to laugh hysterically.

"Papa's cousin?" she cried. "I'm Arletta Jones, your Cousin Henry's daughter. You are papa's relatives, whose address is in my trunk."

Mrs. Bennings looked at her closely.

"It is—I see it is true. There's a resemblance. You played this prank to test us, naughty child."

"Prank?" cried Arletta. "Is that what you call it? Why, I haven't washed my face for two days."

Mrs. Bennings threw up her hands in horror.

"I'll have a bath and bed prepared for you at once. Then you shall tell me all that has happened."

She left the room, and Arletta turned to the son.

"So you're my Cousin Otto. How nice!"

"Well," replied Otto thoughtfully, "we'll let it go as cousin for a day or two."

SPORT LETTER

Cincinnati, May 28.

Base ball dope is running around with a pair of black eyes and a badly battered nose these days. Recent performances by the Cincinnati, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston teams are responsible for this mutilated appearance of the base ball form sheet. In the case of Cincinnati the dope was that by this time the team would be mired hopelessly in last place; with the other three it was predicted that they would be fighting for the flag. And are they—They are—not. There's nothing mysterious about this reversal of the dopesmith's prophesies. The simple answer is that the Reds have developed a better class of youngsters and a more spirited plan of play than was expected of them, while the other teams have failed to come to the mark that the hot-stove analysis of the winter months produced. The teams that have met the Reds so far this season acknowledge that their high standing in the race is deserved—that Herzog has instilled the players with a spirit heretofore foreign to Cincinnati aggregations, and that they will have to be reckoned with for the rest of the season.

With the exception of the Phillies, the Reds have fought their first round of the season with the Eastern teams. An even split with New York, four straights from Boston and three out of four from Brooklyn—a total of nine victories in twelve games played up to and including that of Sunday—is the record against the first three easterners to visit here. This is a much better showing than the team has made in years, and has given the followers more confidence in the Herzog aggregation than they possessed in either O'Day bunch or the Tinker machine in seasons past. That word "machine" fits the Reds to a nicety, for that's just how they are working. True, the bearings require a little more lubricating and grinding before there is no far perceptible; but it's rapidly getting that smoothness that makes for consistent performances—and a place in the first division.

Manager Herzog continues to inject young players into the game whenever the opportunity offers. This system is responsible for the knowledge that the team has good extra men in Rawlings, Kellogg, Uhler and Miller as infielders or outfielders; that Gonzales is a good second catcher to Clarke; that Von Kolnitz is there either as a catcher or outfielder, and that Douglass Davenport and Adams—all over six feet tall—can deliver a superior brand of pitching, and require only a little better acquaintance with big league hitters to make them shine as twirlers. Herzog promises to keep up this practice of putting his young players into the game in order to allow them to develop, and it is certain that the fans will have the opportunity of seeing several of these 1914 models perform in the double-header with the Pittsburgs next Sunday—the last Sabbath-day contest on the local lot until the end of June.

A strong play is being made over in Germany for a series of contests for women in the Olympic games to be held in Berlin in 1916. The claim is made that several countries, including Germany, England and the Scandinavian nations, are developing a superior class of women athletes, and that there is no reason why they shouldn't compete among themselves in these world's events. As yet no expressions on the subject have been received from the women of the United States; but it is safe to say that if the games are arranged, Uncle Sam's fair nieces will be there to show the others how real athletics look.

If John Rockefeller had it to do over again he probably would become a champion pugilist, instead of slaving along to acquire billions by the oil route. And why shouldn't he, when Willie Ritchie, the American lightweight, quotes one battle for the world's championship at $50,000, win or lose. That is the price the U. S. boy has set for his proposed appearance with Freddie Welsh, the English champ., for the later part of June—and which has NOT been concurred in by the London sporting club that desires to stage the bout. Ritchie declares that he can get $20,000 for a no-decision contest with Ad Wolgast and $10,000 for a similar bout with Duffy, hence his big demand for a fight in which his title is at stake. And maybe he'll get it.

More horses have been nominated for the fast trotting races this year, the 2:06; 2:08; 2:09 events, than ever before, showing that the innovation adopted last year of getting away from the 2:12 trots as high marks appeals to horsemen and is certain to bring about more interest than ever before in harness racing. For the New York State meeting at Syracuse, for instance, there have been eighteen nominations in the 2:08 class, a much larger field than ever before announced at this stage of the game. And other cities on the Grand Circuit are showing equal increase in the number of nominations. All of which indicates more excitement and larger attendance at the harness races this year than ever before.

NORTHERN FAYETTE ENJOYS GOOD RAINS

Northern Fayette county is re-

ATHLETICS BEAT BLOOMER GIRLS

A fair-sized crowd yesterday witnessed the game at Athletic park between the locals and Texter's Bloomer girls which resulted in a victory for the Athletics in a 17 to 6 game.

The exhibition was tame throughout, the touring females being outclassed in every respect, despite the fact that the Washington line-up was composed for the most part of substitutes. Five women and four men comprised the team of the visitors.

Frayne occupied the pitcher's
mound and did a good job of twirl-
ing. He was just a little "fussed" at first at the prospect of pitching to women and the first ball he delivered went wild, striking the "batswoman", Miss White, and putting her
out of the game for a few minutes.
This seemed to steady him and he pitched his feature game of the season.

Among the subs run in were Judy
and Pummel, at third, Whittier in left field, Pine on second base, Grover behind the bat and Wyke and Blackmore—the latter the team's mascot—in the right garden.

Saturday and Sunday the Athletics
will line up against the Elmwoods,
of Cincinnati, last season's champions.
Cotterill will pitch Saturday's game
and Reno will occupy the mound
Sunday. The game Saturday will not commence until 3:30 o'clock on account of the Decoration Day services.

WOODLAND LEAVES THE HORSE JOURNAL

Frank D. Woodland, formerly of Bloomington, who for the past year or two has been associated with the Horse Journal as associate editor and later editor, has severed his connection with the Journal, and will devoted his time to the duties of Secretary of the Ohio Racing Circuit, and to writing special articles for some of the largest daily publications in the middle states.

Mr. Woodland has always taken a deep interest in all information pertaining to the horse, and is becoming one of the best known turf writers of the state.

He will go to Greenville within a short time, and will later go to Toledo and other Ohio points.

Mr. Woodland has just received a flattering offer upon a large publication in New York, but has not decided upon accepting the offer, although he may do so before the summer is over.

RAISING TOWER OF ENGINE HOUSE

Workmen are engaged in the work
of extending the hose and bell tower of the Engine House, and changing it so that the bell may be heard all over the central part of the city.

The work is being done under the direction of Safety Director W. H.
Dial, and when completed the tower
will be open on all four sides so that its warning notes will easily escape
from the tower, and not be closely muffled as it has been since the new engine house was erected.

The change is made as a result of much protest against the muffled
bell.

TEN ON LIST FOR CIGARETTE LICENSE

the one firm, which does a wholesale business in cigarettes, is taxed $30
per year.

All dealers in cigarettes are expected to obtain a license and pay the tax, but no dealers in Fayette county, outside of this city, sell cigarettes
—according to the cigarette tax list.

BAND OF ROVERS AGAIN IN THE CITY

A band of gypsies, supposedly the same band which has won such a bad reputation throughout this part of Ohio, and which has visited this city
a number of times, was in the city again Thursday about noon, but when they started a house to house canvass in an effort to flim-flam citizens by various tricks and schemes, the police drove them from the city in a bunch.

They left the city headed east on the Circleville pike.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS APPEAR

The seventeen-year locust, which is due in Ross county and other southern Ohio counties this season,
is arriving, and within the next few days it is expected that hill and vale
will be alive with the noisy insects.

The insects will not appear in this county for several years, and by that time it is expected their number will be greatly diminished from that of their last appearance, owing to the scarcity of timberland.

YOUTH MUST NOT SCATTER THE OIL

Chief of Police D. L. Moore has issued a warning to children to refrain from scattering street oil upon sidewalks, private walks, or about residences.

Complaint has been made that mischievous youngsters have been walking through the oil and then stepping upon sidewalks or private walks
while others have scattered the oil
by rolling balls of earth saturated with the sticky fluid, and hurling
the oily balls against residences, or
at pedestrians.

The trials of John, Fred and Carrie
Cripps, Robert Pummell and Lynn
Smith, which were set for Wednes-

assault with intent to kill.

PERILS OF PAULINE

The second film in the exciting
Pauline," will be shown at the Palace Theater tonight.

is making a tremendous hit all over the country. Each set of films makes a complete picture in itself, but to enjoy it most the series should be seen as presented each week.

BLACK HILLS WILD WEST SHOWS

Some of the Different Types of Western People Carried by Them.

Genuine bands of Cheyenne, Sioux,
Pawnee Indians, etc., on exhibition
are those who are still tent dwellers
and who ignore the paleface. They are perfect types of the noble but rapidly declining race of red men who helped to make the western half
of our nation's history, and their departure to the great beyond will be the passing of a type purely American, brave, loyal and generous to a fault.

Cowboys doing daring deeds, such as roping, tying and riding wild
steers are features of the show.
Bronco busting at each performance
make a pleasant pastime for them.

The Black Hills Wild West Shows
will give two exhibitions in this city
on June 1st at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

STRUCK FROM THE ROLLS.

What Happens to an English Lawyer
When He Goes Wrong.

When a solicitor passes his examinations his name is entered on the "rolls"
of the legal profession. Should he ever become guilty of professional misconduct his name is "struck off the rolls."

It is a grave matter. Any person
having a complaint against a solicitor
in reference to his professional conduct is supposed to forward it to the Incorporated Law Society, the body which rules the legal profession. His private life doesn't trouble the society unless
he is convicted of a criminal offense.

Having received the complaint and
evidence in support of it, the society
brings the matter before a divisional court composed of two or three of the most distinguished judges on the bench. The solicitor is given every chance of defending himself, but if,

after hearing the evidence, the judge
decide that he is guilty his name
"struck from the rolls." Should offense be a minor one, caused by misunderstanding than fraud, solicitor may be suspended for a month and allowed to practice again
the expiration of it.

A solicitor cannot be "struck off
rolls" for negligence or bankruptcy, client's remedy in the first case is bring an action against him for damages. Bankruptcy is adjudged to misfortune and therefore is not
"fessional misconduct."—London
Bits.

realized that we were important people." "So?"

thing."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CAN END COLORADO WAR

The decision to open the books of the banking house was reached after Commissioner Folk had been in conference for several hours with Francis Lynde Stetson, Allen Wardwell and Dwight E. Moreau, counsel for J. P. Morgan & Company. The offer to open the books was made by Mr. Morgan in his statement of Tuesday, covering the recent testimony of Charles S. Mellen respecting his management of the New Haven railroad. Mr. Folk came on from Washington and was closeted for two hours and a half with Mr. Stetson at the Waldorf.

A difference of opinion developed as to the extent of the examination proposed to be made. It appeared Mr. Morgan's offer was made with certain reservations that he made to Mr. Folk to strike at the effectiveness of the inquiry, but Mr. Folk and his examiners shall decide for themselves what books and papers in the possession of Mr. Morgan's firm relating to the New Haven shall be examined, and that the examination shall be thorough. The expert examiners believe that it will take six months to go over the books and papers. By beginning today they expect to be able by next week to present a preliminary report of some kind. This will be used as a guide by Mr. Folk on his examination of directors

Chicago, May 28.—A resolution favoring study of the Bible in the public schools and urging churches to petition state legislatures for laws that will bring about the desired condition was adopted by the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Its aim, as expressed in the language of the report was "that legislation may be ordained permitting, as optional or otherwise, the reading of the Bible in the public schools, or recognition of the Bible for credit or otherwise, in the curriculum of our educational institutions." A resolution urging the establishment of a permanent tribunal at The Hague with a view of abolishing future wars was approved.

NEW YORK HIT THREE KILLED

New York, May 28.—A thunder squall dashed across the Hudson river and hit this old town amidst things that were not nailed down or fastened gave way, and the landscape was liberally sprinkled with signs, parts of roofs and copings. Three men were killed by lightning in the metropolitan district. One of the deaths occurred in Brooklyn, one in New York and one in Two Bridges, N. J. Eleven persons were injured as the direct result of the storm. Three men died from the heat and 21 prostrations were reported. Before the blow the mercury reached the notch of 91 degrees, beating all performances for 35 years for the date.

TESTIFIES IN DAMAGE SUIT

New York, May 28.—Colonel Roosevelt testified before E. Day Clark of Binghamton, sitting as a special commissioner in the $200,000 suit brought by A. D. Wales, a Binghamton lawyer, against John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that he was prepared to send federal troops into Pennsylvania in 1902 if necessary in order to bring about his plan for the settlement of the great anthracite coal strike.

Wales is suing on the ground that he proposed the plan which led ultimately to the settlement of differences between the operators and the miners.

Colonel Roosevelt got down to business at the start-off when Harvey D. Hinman of counsel for John Mitchell asked him to tell the causes which led to the settlement of the strike.

"A very little time convinced me," he said, "that the strike was serious and full of menace to the country, especially to the east. There was danger of a coal famine in the winter, and in the summer and fall I carefully considered what I should do. I made up my mind that I would have to take drastic action unless the miners and the operators got together. I conferred with both sides and found the attitude of Mr. Mitchell and the miners to be entirely reasonable. The attitude of the operators was entirely unreasonable and offensive."

The colonel said that he informed Senator Quay of Pennsylvania that he intended to take drastic action and that the people of the east were going to get coal and get it right away.

He declared he told Quay that he wanted him to arrange with Governor Stone to make a formal demand for troops at any time that he, the president, might advise him that he was ready to act. He also told General Scofield that he was planning to send to Pennsylvania only a general who would regard the situation as that of practical civil war and who would consent to take his orders from the president only, as commander in chief of the army. The colonel testified that General Scofield agreed to all that.

The colonel related how he appointed a commission with ex-President Cleveland as chairman to investigate the complaints of the miners and adjust matters, if possible, but the operators refused to come to terms.

He recalled that Robert Bacon and George W. Perkins, who represented the views of the late J. P. Morgan regarding the situation, had visited him, but he did not remember that Mr. Morgan had called upon him. He said that Mr. Perkins, Mr. Bacon and Messrs. Root, Knox and Paine, members of his cabinet, had advanced plans looking to the settlement of the strike, but none of the suggestions appealed to him. "I told them," he said, "that if they didn't agree to arbitration I would settle the business myself."

WILL HOLD ANTI LAWS

Interstate Trade Commission May Be Created, However.

Washington, May 28.—There is a well defined movement in the senate committee on interstate commerce to put over all anti-trust legislation except the authorization of the interstate trade commission until next session. A motion to that effect is now pending in the committee, submitted by Senator Saulsbury of Delaware, and it was stated that the president would acquiesce in the plan to limit the legislative program if, in the judgment of his party's leaders in congress, it is deemed the wiser course to pursue.

It has been pointed out to the president that the interstate trade commission could investigate during the summer and fall and report to congress early in the regular session that meets in December on the necessities for legislation on holding companies, interlocking directorates and overcapitalization. Senator Cummins of Iowa was said by one of his colleagues in the committee to be opposed to the plan for limiting the trust legislative program for this session.

An erroneous report was circulated around the senate to the effect that the interstate commerce committee in executive session would vote down Senator Saulsbury's motion.

FOUR EXPELLED

Ada, O., May 28.—Four students of Ohio Northern university were expelled for connection with the Northern Light, a student paper hostile to President Smith. The students are three seniors, H. A. Manahan, W. L. Manahan and Burl Brown, and a junior, Thomas Murray.

HARDING OUT FOR SENATOR

Formally Announces Candidacy For Republican Nomination.

Columbus, O., May 28.—Warren G. Harding of Marion county made formal entry into the Republican senatorial contest last night. He issued a short statement expressing amity toward his opponents. Deferring until his entry petitions are filed "such declarations as are seemly," he informed the friends who have been circulating the petitions for weeks that they will not be ignored. He considers three declarations to be seemly now and makes them. They are that he will support the candidate named at the primary, whether that candidate be Foraker, Cole or Harding; that he has not entered in a spirit of antagonism to either of his opponents, but merely to test whether the party voters think he or one of the others the best candidate to aid in bringing about a Republican victory, and that he will not be the candidate of any leader or group of leaders.

Republicans who read Mr. Harding's statement said the new candidate evidently was seeking to dissipate any impression that he had entered merely as Dan R. Hanna's anti-Foraker candidate or at the behest of state leaders, who wanted "some man to beat Foraker" or to force him out of the race.

DAYTON FIRE

Dayton, O., May 28.—Fire of unknown origin threatened the entire block surrounded by Second and Third streets on the north and south, Canal and Madison on the east and west, and resulted in a loss estimated at $100,000. The greatest damage was done to the building and plant of the Apple Electric company.

MINERS INDICTED

Denver, Colo., May 28.—One hundred strikers and organizers were indicted by the grand jury at Canon City on charges of murder and the destruction of property as a result of the battle at Chandler, where one nonunion miner was killed. Capias were issued and arrests were begun.

WIRE FLASHES

John Thomas, a young negro, accused of having attacked a white girl, was mutilated by a mob at Spartanburg, S. C., and returned to jail.

George V. Jordan was killed at Burghaw, N. C., his home, by his sister, Mrs. George Sand, who declared that Jordan threatened to kill her and another sister, following a quarrel.

"Until further notice, kisses implanted in public places cost $7.50 each," said Judge Pogo of the Milwaukee police court, fining Clara Young and Emily Harper $15 each for spotlight spooning.

At Ridgeway, Pa., Mrs. John Kane "risked" $59 for an option on 300 acres of land eight weeks ago. Since then a gas gusher has been struck on the property and she has been offered $200,000 for the land.

While attempting to arrest Lincoln G. Wyman, whose dog he had just killed because the dog tax had not been paid, Howard P. Berry, a constable at Livermore Falls, Me., was fatally shot. Wyman later ended his life.

D.T.&I. PAYS MAN $21,755 FOR LEG

Ironton, O., May 28.—Mayor A. J. Hannon received a check for $21,755 from the D. T. & I. company in payment for the loss of his leg in an accident while he was an engineer in the employ of the company. The case was fought through the courts and the verdict recently was affirmed by the supreme court of Ohio.

Mexican Conditions Improved

Conditions in Mexico seem now, for the first time since the inauguration of the revolution against Madero, to be assuming a form which promises an early cessation of hostilities and the beginning of a reign of peace and quiet in the strife-torn republic.

There never has been an international complication, at least not one to which the United States was a party, which furnished the surprising and sudden changes of conditions that the present Mexican turmoil has furnished, and it would surprise no one who has followed the trend of events to see conditions undergo another change within the next four and twenty hours.

Huerta's rule seems assuredly tottering to its final fall and every condition at present existing could, if with any other nation and any other people, be relied upon as the beginning of the end. If any other people were in the condition, the Mexicans are today, it might be stated with almost positive certainty that Huerta would either be a fugitive in foreign lands or a claimant for the protection of the United States within the next week.

Once more the watchful waiting policy of President Wilson promises to be crowned with success, and once more a bloody conflict with Mexico promises to be averted.

The different political factions in Mexico seem to be coming to their sober senses and to a full realization that the United States government is quietly determined that Huerta must abdicate and that no other like him can assume arbitrary control.

Carranza, Huerta, Villa and the other political leaders of Mexico seem, at last to fully realize that if Mexico is to retain her identity as a republic there must be a real and an honest and a genuine breaking up of the enormous estates held by the favored classes and a just distribution of the wealth of the land among the toiling many.

Mexicans can accomplish the desired end and build up a middle class, in Mexico, if they will, and this government is determined that they shall do so.

No republic can exist in peace where the great majority of the people are paupers and a very small per cent of the population is princely rich. The time has come when this nation will not, by inaction, consent to a change of masters and a continuation of present conditions in Mexico.

The enormous fortunes possessed by the very few in Mexico are founded upon a feudal system of landed estates which civilized people have long out-grown and to the existence of which no people on earth will consent.

The Mexican people have endured outrageously unjust property conditions to exist longer than the people of any other land, but that they have not quietly submitted is abundantly attested by the fact that they have over three hundred times revolted against the government which permitted them.

At last, it would seem from present conditions, a realization of the fact that permanent peace can only come with the inauguration of new era in Mexico, has come upon the political leaders, and they have been very materially aided in arriving at that realization by the announced determination of the United States to see to it that a new regime is, in fact, ushered in.

Farming Will Never Be Sufficiently Profitable to Maintain Present Living Cost

By Dean DAVENPORT of University of Illinois College of Agriculture

THE United States cannot look to agriculture to reduce the cost of living, for food will continue to increase in cost. Instead the country must cut down on its expenditures for clothing, housing and amusements.

SPEAKING FOR AGRICULTURE, I AM READY TO AVER THAT FARMING WILL NEVER BE SUFFICIENTLY PROFITABLE TO MAINTAIN THE STANDARD OF LIVING WHICH THE PUBLIC IS BEING LED TO ESTABLISH. IT IS THE UNEARNED INCREMENT ON LAND WHICH THE PRESENT GENERATION IS SPENDING AND WHICH WE ARE TEACHING OUR CHILDREN TO SPEND BEFORE THEY HAVE LEARNED SO MUCH ABOUT THE BUSINESS OF EARNING.

Poetry For Today

MAN WITH THE SLIPPERS.

"I am weary, I am weary," said the man in tones of care.
"As I don my carpet slippers and sink down into a chair,
Each day as I proceed to get acquainted with the news
The way I'm whirled around the earth invites a case of blues.
I linger in Alaska long enough to have a chill,
And then I jump to Mexico and get another thrill.
I flit to oriental lands and do the best I can
To understand just what may be expected from Japan.
To Africa I wander. There's a sign upon the shore;
"Not Here. Try South America For Uncle Theodore."
And then I pause in England and endeavor to find out
Exactly what some arguments in progress are about.
I am weary, I am weary as the sun is sinking low,
For every date line makes me jump a thousand miles or so.
Though he may not plow the ocean or be foremost in the strife,
The man in carpet slippers leads a most exciting life."
—Washington Star.

LONDON'S UGLY CHURCH.

The First Sacred Edifice In the World to Be Lighted by Gas.

Readers of "Our Mutual Friend" will remember that Dickens gives a whimsical description of St. John's, Westminster, when referring to the home of the doll's dressmaker, Miss Jenny Wren.

"In this region," he writes, "are a certain little street called Church street and a certain little blind square called Smith square, in the center of which last retreat is a very hideous church, with four towers at the four corners, generally resembling some petrified monster, frightful and gigantic, on its back, with its legs in the air."

Lord Chesterfield said St. John's reminded him of an elephant with its legs in the air, and Charles Mathews likened it to a dining table in the same position.

St. John's enjoys the distinction of being the first sacred edifice in the world to be lit by gas. As may be imagined, the introduction of the new illuminant was deeply resented by many conservative spirits, some of whom went so far as to describe it as a sacrilege.—Manchester (England) Courier.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Food In Warm Weather.
With the advent of warm weather diseases of the breathing organs, such as bronchitis, pneumonia and the like, which claim their greatest number of victims during winter weather, give way to diseases and disorders of the digestive organs, such as summer diarrhea, ptomaine and the various kinds of food poisonings. The winter diseases are due mostly to the breathing of bad air, the warm weather ailments to the consumption of bad food.

People should make sure that they are served only with fresh, clean, pure food all the year around, but extra care must be taken in this regard during the warm weather months, when the risk of receiving tainted or unsound foodstuffs is greatly increased.

Ptomaine poisoning is a serious and distressing illness, which can only be avoided by the utmost care in the selection of meat, fish and other sea food and especially of canned meats.

CHAUTAUQUA TO HAVE DAY FOR THE FARMER

Burbank's Assistant Will Describe Plant Wizard at Work.

Every agriculturist in this and adjoining counties will be interested in the announcement that Prof. Henry A. Adrian, a co-worker with the celebrated Luther Burbank, will give a lecture on "Luther Burbank and His Work" at the forthcoming Chautauqua, illustrating his address with many interesting anecdotes of Mr. Burbank, explanations of the work being done in the latter's nurseries, and practical illustrations by means of specimen plants carried with him. At the conclusion of his lecture Mr. Adrian will preside at a round table discussion, at which time all persons in his audience are invited to ask such questions concerning Mr. Burbank's work as they desire.

That this will be a feature event of the Chautauqua week, full as the program is of good things, goes without saying. For a number of years Lyceum and Chautauqua managers have made every possible inducement to Mr. Burbank to devote a portion of his time to the platform, but the latter has been so engrossed in his experiments that he has turned a deaf ear to all entreaties. "I'll do the next best thing," said Burbank. "I'll let you have Adrian. And I'm not

And so Professor Adrian took up a task, particularly happy to him, because of his intimate personal acquaintance with and appreciation of Mr. Burbank, that of acquainting the world with the marvelous work being done in the California workshop of the plant wizard. In three years Adrian has made the Burbank lectures among the most popular in America, and he has been the means of exciting renewed interest in agricultural and fruit growing pursuits throughout the nation. A gifted speaker, he gives perhaps more vividly than Burbank himself could do it, a clear insight into the methods used by the man who has added almost without limit to the knowledge of plant life in this country and pointed the way to an almost unlimited improvement upon the slow processes of nature. To increase the quantity and improve the quality of human food is the biggest economic problem which the nation is facing today, and Prof. Adrian shows how Luther Burbank is helping to solve the problem. To every man interested in agricultural pursuits, to whatever extent, this lecture will be worth the price of a season ticket to the Chautauqua.

SIG. JOSEPH QUINTANO.

SIG. JOSEPH QUINTANO, who will direct his famous Royal Italian Band in two concerts here during Chautauqua week, sometimes is in a thoughtful frame of mind. Usually pictured in action, the above picture shows him in repose.
"I prefer to play before Chautauqua audiences to any other kind," he says. "They are more appreciative, and they pay attention to the program, which isn't true of any other summer audience."

The Process of Dry Milk

While the milk is new (still warm) it is turned into a large tank from which it comes in a fine spray, falling on swiftly revolving red-hot copper cylinders; just before it touches the cylinders all the moisture leaves it and it falls in the form of tiny white flakes on white silk trays; it is dried again in 150 degrees of heat for two hours then packed in air-tight barrels. All of this is done in one of the big Milk-Chocolate factories, and everyone knows their cows are tested and rated AA, A1. We add the water ourselves and use it in our famous

MOSQUITO PEST HERE TO ANNOY CITIZENS

Early Appearance of Dangerous Pest Which Proved So Annoying Last Summer, Is Regarded With Misgiving.

STAGNANT PAINT CREEK IDEAL BREEDING PLACE

Washingtonians Anxious to Have Prompt Action Taken to Eliminate Breeding Places and Thus Eradicate the Pest Which is Liable to Cause Outbreak of Typhoid or Other Dangerous Epidemic in This City.

Well, they are here again! Yes, the mosquitoes—very persistent, very active and apparently possessing much of the same vitality of their ancestors who swooped down in great hordes upon the unsuspecting citizens of Washington last summer, and created pandemonium, as well as a ready sale for oil of citronella, pennyroyal, close woven screens, and a dozen and one other articles calculated to relieve the torture inflicted by the hungry creatures.

So far the mosquitoes are not as numerous as last season—fact is they are still somewhat scattering, but still in numbers sufficient to make local citizens sit up at the hour of midnight and take particular notice that they have unwelcome visitors who are thirsty for human blood.

The presence of the pest so early in the season indicates that unless radical steps are taken by the Board of Health to eradicate the insects, that before the summer is over Washington will once more be in the grasp of the annoying and dangerous mosquito pest, and the ability of the mosquito to carry typhoid fever and other dreaded and dangerous diseases, is well known, and an epidemic due to mosquito bites is not at all impossible, but highly probable.

The recent drought has resulted in Paint creek, with all of its sewer filth and unwholesome refuse, becoming stagnant and offensive, with countless pools where the mosquitoes may breed by the millions, and an application of oil or other preparation that will effectively prevent the mosquito eggs from hatching, is urgently in demand.

Hundreds of Washington citizens have not forgotten their terrible experiences with the mosquito pest during the warm nights last summer, and if it requires an outlay of $100 for oil or other material to make the breeding of mosquitoes impossible, Washington citizens would deem it one of the biggest bargains ever secured by the city, it is believed.

Meanwhile local citizens will be on the lookout for the pestiferous nocturnal visitors who creep through window screens as if they did not exist.

SERIOUSLY HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

H. A. Montgomery, of Martinsville, traveling salesman for the Clinton Supply Company, and well known in this city, nearly met death on the Wilmington pike near Sabina, Tuesday afternoon, when the steering gear of his automobile snapped while he was going at a high rate of speed, and the machine plunged over an embankment and struck a telephone pole.

Montgomery was horribly cut about the face, shoulders and arms, and his chest was bruised and crushed where he was pinned in the seat by the broken steering gear.

He was driving a Ford machine, and it was reduced to scraps. The front axle was twisted about the telephone pole, the engine was dislodged and smashed, and the body of the car bent and twisted.

Montgomery was taken to Sabina where he was placed under the care of a physician. He was not yet out of danger, according to last reports.

80-YR-OLD MAN STANDS ALONE

Mr. Wm. Davis, who formerly resided five miles south of this city on the Rock Mills road, has spent the past few days the guest of his son, H. B. Davis, near Johnson's Crossing, and his sister, Jane, in this city. He will return to his home near Marion, Ind., Friday.

Mr. Davis is in very good health at this time. Last winter, however, he was bedfast for nine weeks, suffering from a stomach and bowel complaint. All of his life he has been strong and healthy and loved to work early and late.

In his youth he fixed his mind on high ideals and never wavered. He is one of the very few persons reaching old age that can truthfully say that in all his life he has never chewed tobacco, smoked pipe or cigar, drank liquor of any kind, drunk tea or coffee, played cards, pool or billiards, danced, fished or hunted. Mr. Davis further says he never belonged to a lodge of any kind, never saw a baseball game and only once visited a theater.

He preferred to stick to his work and found his enjoyment in farming, stock-raising and providing for his family. His influence was always given to furthering the interests of the church.

Mr. Davis will be 80 years of age on October 21. His wife, who was Margaret Draper, daughter of the late Richard Draper, of near Staunton, will reach the age of 77 next February 22. Mr. and Mrs. Davis have two sons and three daughters, H. B. Davis, near this city; Wilbur, at Marion, Ind.; Mrs. C. C. Cory, near Springfield; Mrs. Mary Behem, Gas City, Ind., and Mrs. Alice Tudor, Rosburg, Ind.

BAKER DEPOSITS GUARANTEE FUND

Eliminating the inconveniences of having two contractors on the job, George W. Baker, president of the Springfield-Washington traction railway, yesterday paid to the city manager $700 as a guarantee that the work of improving South Limestone street would be done according to the specifications and that work would be started as soon as possible.

The request that such payment or guarantee be given was made by the city manager several days ago. In a meeting yesterday it was agreed by Mr. Baker that he should so guarantee his work of relaying his tracks and paving between them and the portion to be paved by the city.

It is believed that by having guaranteed his work, Mr. Baker has insured greater rapidity on the job. There will be only one man with which to deal in giving instructions. Contractor Ryan, who has the job, said yesterday he would be able to start work within a few days.—Springfield Sun.

CINCINNATIANS RAISE $500,000

Cincinnati, O., May 28.—"What other cities have done, Cincinnati will do."

Put to the acid test during the final hours of the Y. M. C. A. campaign for a $500,000 building fund, the Queen City of the West was not found wanting. When midnight of the final day allotted to the crusade for a new building to replace the one condemned by the Building Commission was drawing near, the 300 workers did not lose heart, but hoped against hope that Cincinnati was not to be numbered among the cities of America that cannot do great things.

At the final moment, when the workers were at a tension and the possibility of losing all of the $490,000 seemed imminent, it was announced that Mrs. Mary Emery, who previously had subscribed $50,000 toward the cause, had agreed in the early afternoon to make up whatever deficit that existed at the end of the last day of the campaign. Mrs. Emery's generous addition to her other contribution was to have been given out when all other sources had failed, but at 11 o'clock she telephoned to James Orr, chairman of the Business Men's Committee, telling him to relieve the minds of his workers with word of her decision, and to tell them all to go home to enjoy the first night of undisturbed slumber since the opening of the campaign almost two weeks ago.

Chas. P. Taft subscribed $25,000 on the last day.

Over five thousand two hundred women are attending universities in Germany this year, being five times as large as it was four years ago.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR MURRAY SELLS OUT

Well Known Local Undertaker Disposes of Undertaking Business to Mr. S. W. White, Who Takes Charge Immediately and Will Remain in the Murray Quarters.

Mr. S. W. White, of Hamilton, O., has purchased Mr. C. H. Murray's undertaking business and will continue to conduct it in the same building, on Court street, in which it has so long been established.

Mr. White comes highly recommended from Hamilton, where he was a member of the C. W. Gath Undertaking Co., a foremost establishment of that city. He is a graduate of the Clark's school of embalming in Cincinnati, and has had 12 years of experience in the business, being located in Russellville, O., previous to his locating in Hamilton.

Mr. White purposes to install new equipment in the early future. For the present Mr. Murray remains connected with him in the business, his future plans not being definitely decided.

Mr. Murray has had this change in view for some time, owing to his desire to locate in California, where his two sons reside, and he and his wife will probably leave for the West in the fall.

Their contemplated departure arouses the most sincere regret among a host of friends in this city, where both have been actively connected with manifold interests.

Mr. Murray has conducted a leading undertaking business in Washington for the past 25 years, with the exception of four years spent in California, and his professional ability and kindly, sympathetic personal interest combined to win for him a distinctive place in both his business and social relations.

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND SERVICES

Of simple beauty, and a tribute such as was worthy of the admirable woman and devoted mother, were the funeral services of Mrs. S. F. Johnson, held at the late residence, on North street Wednesday afternoon.

The home was inadequate to the immense gathering of relatives and friends, who assembled, many of them coming from quite a distance.

Rev. W. B. Gage, of the First Presbyterian church, officiated, following the opening service with a beautiful little address, appreciative of Mrs. Johnson's character and life, and the fragrant memory it will remain to comfort her children and grandchildren.

The services were closed with the reading of a hymn.

A long line of carriages accompanied the family to the Washington cemetery, for interment in the family lot.

Acting as pall-bearers were Messrs. T. H. Craig, S. E. Parrett, Henry Brownell, M. S. Daugherty, George Hitchcock, Roy McClure.

The floral remembrances were lovely and in great number. Among them were special designs from the P. & D. bank, a casket spray of white lilies; from the Presbyterian church a beautiful spray of snap dragons, cantebury bells and carnations, and casket spray from the Blue lodge, F. & A. M.

Among relatives here to attend the funeral were: Dr. Frank Peele, Mr. B. Peele, Mrs. Hoskins, Wilmington; Mrs. Geo. A. Barnes, Chattanooga, Tenn.; two granddaughters, Mrs. Bertha Trees, Laporte, Ind.; Miss Lucy Meek, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Gertrude Gray, Mr. Tulla Coin, Mrs. Maude Creamer, Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, Mrs. Hannah Creamer, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Creamer, Mrs. Ruth McMaisters, Mr. Roy Creamer, Messrs. Chas. and Eugene Creamer, Jeffersonville; Mrs. Carson West, a niece.

ARMY OFFICERS HERE AFTER LARGE SHIPMENT OF HORSES

Captain Whitside and Party Now in City Examining 75 Head of Choice Artillery and Remount Horses Purchased by Chas. Allen—Army Wants Washington to Supply 100 Horses Monthly.

Captain W. W. Whitside from the Fort Royal, Va., remount station, returned to Washington C. H. Wednesday, accompanied by officers and horsemen and spent the day at the sales pavilion inspecting 75 head of Fayette county equines collected by Mr. Charles Allen, Washington's prominent horseman and purchasing agent of the United States government.

The men were busy all day Wednesday and were unable to complete the examination which will be finished today. It is expected that the greater number of the animals offered will be taken.

With Captain Whitside are Dr. L. L. Hornbeck, of the Front Royal remount station; Messrs. J. A. Tallay and A. C. Gallard, prominent horsemen of Richmond, Va., and Captain

H. W. Brown of the adjutant general's office, Columbus.

Captain Whitside stated yesterday that it was the desire of the government that Washington C. H., if possible, become a constant source of horse supply, furnishing about five carloads of horses monthly. Five carloads is equivalent to about ninety head and the income to be derived from such a shipment would be about $15,000.

It is the opinion of local horsemen that the needs of the government can be met and the maintenance of such a station here is apparently an established fact.

The price offered by the government, which is seeking both cavalry and artillery styled horses, is better than can be secured by possessors of this grade of animal generally, and the belief is that Fayette county, always a leader in the rearing of horses will become an even more industrious community in this respect.

The number of horses which will probably be purchased by the army men will be about double the first purchase of a few weeks ago.

Captain Whitside and party are guests of the Cherry.

HUERTA WILLING TO QUIT THE JOB

Report Says He Will Yield to Any One Mediators May Select.

WILL NOT BLOCK PEACE PLANS

Dictator Said to Have Specifically Committed Himself to Turn Over the Government to a Commission Composed of Prominent Members of the Various Factions in Mexico. Late Developments in the Situation.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, May 28. — Reports reaching here through private sources declare that President Huerta has specifically committed himself to turn over the government to a commission composed of prominent members of the various factions in the republic, such as has been suggested at the Niagara Falls peace conference. He is also said to have agreed to relinquish power to any successor which such a commission might select. The report further says that Huerta's determination has already been communicated to the Mexican delegates and probably directly to the Washington government.

In the capital the belief is held that the Mexican peace delegates will be named to represent the Huerta faction on the proposed commission and that they may return soon to Mexico City. It is also thought that possibly the representatives of the United States and the A. B. C. mediators may accompany them, and that the final plan for the restoration of peace and for a constitutional election may be drafted in Mexico City.

Arletta In Paris

A Queer Introduction and the Result.

By F. A. COLLINS.

The ornate clock on the mantel in the pretty drawing room at Auteuil, near Paris, with windows overlooking the garden, never slept, although its mistress, Mrs. Marion Bennings, did regularly every evening that her son and herself spent alone.

She was nodding now over a ribbon decorated basket containing some silk en hose she had been mending. The ornate clock struck 11, and Otto, turning around, pushed a book off to the floor. The noise awoke Mrs. Bennings, who sat up with a start and remarked: "I am off to bed. What a stupid evening! I haven't heard you speak for an hour."

"You couldn't," said Otto. But as she stared at him indignantly he made haste to add, "Because I haven't spoken for an hour."

Mrs. Bennings got up slowly, and a letter fell from her lap. Otto hastened to pick it up. "You'd better read it," said his mother. "My cousin, Harry Jones, who is tremendously rich, writes that he is bringing his motherless daughter to Paris. Her name is Arletta, and I have heard she is pretty and accomplished. She must be very nice to them, particularly to the daughter. She is an only child."

"Then I congratulate her. I'm an only child too," remarked Otto.

"Her husband will be very fortunate. Don't you agree with me?"

"I'll withhold judgment till I see the young lady," said her son.

Left alone, Otto resumed the writing of his letter, which he was to address to a certain Celeste, and reflected that probably his mother was already planning to marry him to Arletta, the daughter of the wealthy Mr. Jones. But he made a bet with himself that it wouldn't come off.

Suddenly a woman's voice to the accompaniment of a guitar came through the open window. It was soft, rich, yet penetrating.

"La nuit ecoute et se penche sur l'oreille," etc.

"Hello!" said Otto. "A strolling singer, and a good voice too." He went to the window and called out, "Qui vive?"

"Oh, dear!" answered a woman's voice outside. "They told me you spoke English."

"So I do, after a fashion," said Otto, leaning out of the window. "Do you?"

"Why, of course I do," said the voice. "I'm English; at least I'm American."

"The deuce you are! What are you doing in our garden?"

"Come in at once. Here, give me your hand. It's only a step."

A pretty girl dressed in a Spanish costume, as if for a fancy ball, followed the hand. Her costume was rich and looked fresh, but she sank into a chair by the window, exclaiming:

"Oh, how good it seems to be able to sit down again in a chair!"

"Have you walked all the way from Paris?" asked Otto.

"From Paris and ever so much farther. My shoes are worn to shreds. See?"

She stretched out a tiny foot. Slipper and silken hose were in shreds.

"I've been singing for two days,"

said she, "and, see, that is all I took in"—showing him a few soles—"and I'm so hungry."

"Hungry!" cried Otto, dragging forward a little table with some cakes and wine. The girl looked at it longingly, remarking:

"Cake. That's what everybody offers me, and I'm dying for a—ham sandwich."

"I'll forage for something more substantial!" cried Otto, starting toward the door.

"Not till I explain. Wait, please," said the girl. "Are you an American?"

"You bet I am!"

"Thank God!" she said. "Then you'll believe me. I'm not a beggar. I'm in hard luck. These are all the clothes, this is all the money, I have. I'm a stranger in Paris. Day before yesterday I arrived there and went to the Grand hotel to wait for my father. I had a maid, half a dozen trunks and a letter of credit. On the way from the Gare du Nord my maid ran away with the trunks and my letter. At the hotel they wouldn't believe me when I told them who I was. I hadn't a friend in Paris except some relatives of my father, whose address is in my vanished trunks. This masquerade suit hung in the closet of the hotel. I borrowed it and rented a guitar and started out to see if I could support myself. I had read of students in distress doing such things. I thought it would be a lark, but it has been awful. And I kept thinking I'd come up with some nice Americans. I was doing my very best, you see."

Otto agreed with her. He couldn't help it, she was so pretty. When he told her this she permitted him to go for a sandwich. In a minute he came back with some cold chicken and little biscuits, a small cheese and a pot of jelly.

"Will these things do?" he queried doubtfully.

"Do? Do?" she cried, with delight. "Watch me!"

She perched before the tray and began to eat ravenously. "This chicken is divine," she exclaimed. "What a nice fellow you are! But I can't eat much. I'm too worried."

"Worried?" said Otto. "What about?"

"I guess you'd be worried if you didn't know where you were going to sleep tonight."

"So I might," said he, "but where did you sleep last night?"

"In the Parc Monceau."

"In the park? All night?"

"All night, and there was such a wretch near me!"

"I'm sure there was," said Otto, hunting through his pockets. "Here, take this money. At least you won't have to sleep in the park."

"Then I can't sleep here?" pouted the girl. "You believe me, of course, but you have your few little doubts. My story is so absurd."

"I believe every word," said Otto. "But this hotel is expensive."

"I'll take the money," said the girl, "and as soon as my father comes he will repay you. You'll tell me your name. How he will thank you! Oh, if only the shops were open so I might buy some shoes and stockings. These are holes."

Otto ran to his mother's workbasket, which she had left behind her, and drew forth a pair of stockings. He offered them to the stranger, who received them with a shriek of joy.

"Could I borrow these?" she cried. "Your wife's?"

"My mother's," said he. "I'm not married."

"Not married?" cried the girl, holding the silk hosiery aloft. "I thought—"

This was the scene that Mrs. Bennings witnessed as she opened the door in her drawing room to inquire why her son was still up. She paused a moment, then strode in, exclaiming:

"Otto!"

Otto jumped around guiltily, and the stranger screamed.

"Mother, let me explain," said Otto. "This lady—"

"Lady!" interrupted Mrs. Bennings. "What is this lady doing in my house unknown to me?"

"I'd better tell her," said the girl, rising to her feet. But the outraged matron, motioning her to be silent, said:

"I will deal only with my son. As for you, begone!"

"Are the stockings hers?" asked the girl of Otto. "Then I'll not wear them a single instant. I'd rather go barefoot. I would—indeed, I would. I'm very sorry, madam, that I intruded, but I was in great trouble. Until my father, who is to arrive this week—"

She stamped her feet into the ruined slippers and rose, half crying: "I'm going. I'm sorry I came in."

Otto was at her side. "I'll take you to a hotel. Let mother think what suits her. Come!"

He offered her his hand. The girl put hers in it, and they turned toward the window. But Mrs. Bennings cried:

"The door, if you please!"

The stranger went to the door and, turning, said, with dignity:

"I know that appearances are against me, but when my father reaches Paris we will call and explain. Won't you please tell me your name?"

Mrs. Bennings shook her head, but Otto answered promptly:

"My mother is Mrs. Marion Bennings."

Cincinnati, May 28.

Base ball dope is running around with a pair of black eyes and a badly battered nose these days. Recent performances by the Cincinnati, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston teams are responsible for this mutilated appearance of the base ball form sheet. In the case of Cincinnati the dope was that by this time the team would be mired hopelessly in last place; with the other three it was predicted that they would be fighting for the flag. And are they? They are not. There's nothing mysterious about this reversal of the dopesmith's prophecies. The simple answer is that the Reds have developed a better class of youngsters and a more spirited plan of play than was expected of them, while the other teams have failed to come to the mark that the hot-stove analysis of the winter months produced. The teams that have met the Reds so far this season acknowledge that their high standing in the race is deserved—that Herzog has instilled the play- ers with a spirit heretofore foreign to Cincinnati aggregations, and that they will have to be reckoned with for the rest of the season.

With the exception of the Phillies, the Reds have fought their first round of the season with the East- ern teams. An even split with New York, four straights from Boston and three out of four from Brooklyn—a total of nine victories in twelve games played up to and including that of Sunday—is the record against the first three easterners to visit here. This is a much better show- ing than the team has made in years, and has given the followers more confidence in the Herzog aggrega- tion than they possessed in either O'Day bunch or the Tinker machine in seasons past. That word "ma- chine" fits the Reds to a nicety, for that's just how they are working. True, the bearings require a little more lubricating and grinding be- fore there is no far perceptible; but it's rapidly getting that smoothness that makes for consistent perform- ances—and a place in the first divi- sion.

Manager Herzog continues to in- ject young players into the game whenever the opportunity offers. This system is responsible for the knowledge that the team has good extra men in Rawlings, Kellog, Uhler and Miller as infielders or outfield- ers; that Gonzales is a good second catcher to Clarke; that Von Koln- itz is there either as a catcher or outfielder, and that Douglass Davenport and Adams—all over six feet tall—can deliver a superior brand of pitching, and require only a little better acquaintance with big league hitters to make them shine as twirlers. Herzog promises to keep up this practice of putting his young players into the game in order to al- low them to develop, and it is cer- tain that the fans will have the op- portunity of seeing several of these 1914 models perform in the double- header with the Pittsburgs next Sun- day—the last Sabbath-day contest on the local lot until the end of June.

A strong play is being made over in Germany for a series of contests for women in the Olympic games to be held in Berlin in 1916. The claim is made that several countries, including Germany, England and the Scandinavian nations, are de- veloping a superior class of women athletes, and that there is no reason why they shouldn't compete among themselves in these world's events. As yet no expressions on the subject have been received from the women of the United States; but it is safe to say that if the games are arrang- ed, Uncle Sam's fair nieces will be there to show the others how real athletics look.

If John Rockefeller had it to do over again he probably would be- come a champion pugilist, instead of slaving along to acquire billions by the oil route. And why shouldn't he, when Willie Ritchie, the Ameri- can lightweight, quotes one battle for the world's championship at $50,- 000, win or lose. That is the price the U. S. boy has set for his propos- ed appearance with Freddie Welsh, the English champ, for the later part of June—and which has NOT been concurred in by the London sporting club that desires to stage the bout. Ritchie declares that he can get $20,000 for an no-decision contest with Ad Wolgast and $10,- 000 for a similar bout with Duffy, hence his big demand for a fight in which his title is at stake. And maybe he'll get it.

For the New York State meeting at Syracuse, for instance, there have been eighteen nominations in the 2:08 class, a much larger field than ever before announced at this stage of the game. And other cities on the Grand Circuit are showing equal increase in the number of nomina- tions. All of which indicates more excitement and larger attendance at the harness races this year than ever before.

NORTHERN FAYETTE ENJOYS GOOD RAINS

Northern Fayette county is resplendent under the exhilarating effects of two good rains, which fell in that locality Wednesday evening, enlivening vegetation, soaking the ground to a depth of several inches, and preventing any great injury by drought.

The rains were just what the farmers were wanting to insure growth of corn, wheat, grass and other crops.

ATHLETICS BEAT BLOOMER GIRLS

A fair-sized crowd yesterday witnessed the game at Athletic park between the locals and Texter's Bloomer girls which resulted in a victory for the Athletics in a 17 to 6 game.

The exhibition was tame throughout, the touring females being out-
classed in every respect, despite the fact that the Washington line-up was
composed for the most part of substitutes. Five women and four men
comprised the team of the visitors.
Frayne occupied the pitcher's
mound and did a good job of twirl-
ing. He was just a little "fussed" at first at the prospect of pitching to women and the first ball he delivered went wild, striking the "batswoman", Miss White, and putting her
out of the game for a few minutes.
This seemed to steady him and he pitched his feature game of the season.

Among the subs run in were Judy
and Pummel, at third, Whittier in
left field, Pine on second base, Grover behind the bat and Wylke and Blackmore—the latter the team's mascot—in the right garden.

Saturday and Sunday the Athletics
will line up against the Elmwoods,
of Cincinnati, last season's champions
of the Saturday Afternoon league.
Cotterill will pitch Saturday's game
and Reno will occupy the mound
Sunday. The game Saturday will not commence until 3:30 o'clock on account of the Decoration Day services.

Horse Journal as associate editor and
later editor, has severed his connection with the Journal, and will devote his time to the duties of Secretary of the Ohio Racing Circuit, and
to writing special articles for some of the largest daily publications in
the middle states.

Mr. Woodland has always taken a deep interest in all information pertaining to the horse, and is becoming
one of the best known turf writers of the state.

He will go to Greenville within a short time, and will later go to Toledo and other Ohio points.

Mr. Woodland has just received a flattering offer upon a large publication in New York, but has not decided upon accepting the offer, although he may do so before the summer is over.

RAISING TOWER OF ENGINE HOUSE

Workmen are engaged in the work
of extending the hose and bell tower
of the Engine House, and changing it so that the bell may be heard all over the central part of the city.

The work is being done under the direction of Safety Director W. H.
Dial, and when completed the tower
will be open on all four sides so that its warning notes will easily escape
from the tower, and not be closely muffled as it has been since the new engine house was erected.

The change is made as a result of
much protest against the muffled
bell.

TEN ON LIST FOR CIGARETTE LICENSE

So far ten dealers, all of this city, are on the cigarette tax list at the County Auditor's office, and each of the ten, with the exception of one, must pay $15 for a license, while
the one firm, which does a wholesale business in cigarettes, is taxed $30
per year.

All dealers in cigarettes are expected to obtain a license and pay the tax, but no dealers in Fayette county, outside of this city, sell cigarettes
—according to the cigarette tax list.

CONSTABLE NABS TWO YOUNG BOYS

Constable C. W. Perry, of Wayne township, notified the Sheriff's office Thursday afternoon that two boys of tender years were being held at Good Hope on charges of delinquency.

The boys are Sidney Freshour, of Good Hope, and Orville Price, of Dayton, the latter having run away from the home of his uncle in the Gem City.

Mr. Perry was advised to take the youths before the Juvenile court to obtain action.

YELLOWSTONE PARK TONIGHT AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The several churches unite in a union prayer service tonight at the Presbyterian church, and Rev. J.
Lewis Smith, D. D., of Pasadena, Cal., will deliver an address on the Yellowstone park, the lecture is to be illustrated by a large number of beautiful views thrown upon a screen 12 feet square.

The services begin at 7:30.
No services except at the Presbyterian church.

HOLIDAY HOURS AT POSTOFFICE

Saturday, May 30th, Decoration
Day, will be observed as a legal holiday by the local post office. The office will be open until 10 a. m. and will then close for the balance of the day.

The city carriers will make one full delivery in the morning. As the rural carriers will not serve their routes on this day, patrons of the rural delivery can secure their mail by calling at the office during the hours it is open.

BAND OF ROVERS AGAIN IN THE CITY

A band of gypsies, supposedly the
same band which has won such a bad reputation throughout this part of Ohio, and which has visited this city
a number of times, was in the city
again Thursday about noon, but when they started a house to house canvass
in an effort to film-flam citizens by various tricks and schemes, the police drove them from the city in a bunch.

They left the city headed east on
the Circleville pike.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOCUSTS APPEAR

The seventeen-year locust, which
is due in Ross county and other
southern Ohio counties this season,
is arriving, and within the next few
days it is expected that hill and vale
will be alive with the noisy insects.

The insects will not appear in this county for several years, and by that time it is expected their number will be greatly diminished from that of their last appearance, owing to the scarcity of timberland.

YOUTH MUST NOT SCATTER THE OIL

Chief of Police D. L. Moore has issued a warning to children to refrain
from scattering street oil upon sidewalks, private walks, or about residences.

Complaint has been made that mischievous youngsters have been walking through the oil and then stepping upon sidewalks or private walks
while others have scattered the oil
by rolling balls of earth saturated
with the sticky fluid, and hurling
the oily balls against residences, or
at pedestrians.

TRIAL POSTPONED UNTIL NEXT WEEK

The trials of John, Fred and Carrie
Cripps, Robert Pummell and Lynn
Smith, which were set for Wednesday and Thursday of this week, have been postponed until Monday morning of next week.

The trials grow out of a free-for-all scrap on Lewis street, Saturday night, and the subsequent filing of affidavits for assault and battery and assault with intent to kill.

PERILS OF PAULINE

The second film in the exciting
Pauline," will be shown at the Palace Theater tonight.

This novel picture dramatization is making a tremendous hit all over the country. Each set of films makes a complete picture in itself, but to enjoy it most the series should be seen as presented each week.

BLACK HILLS WILD WEST SHOWS

Some of the Different Types of Western People Carried by Them.

Genuine bands of Cheyenne, Sioux,
Pawnee Indians, etc., on exhibition
are those who are still tent dwellers
and who ignore the paleface. They are perfect types of the noble but
rapidly declining race of red men
who helped to make the western half
of our nation's history, and their departure to the great beyond will be
the passing of a type purely American, brave, loyal and generous to a fault.

Cowboys doing daring deeds, such
as roping, tying and riding wild
steers are features of the show.
Bronco busting at each performance
make a pleasant pastime for them.

The Black Hills Wild West Shows
will give two exhibitions in this city
on June 1st at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

STRUCK FROM THE ROLLS.

What Happens to an English Lawyer
When He Goes Wrong.

When a solicitor passes his examinations his name is entered on the "rolls"
of the legal profession. Should he ever
become guilty of professional misconduct his name is "struck off the rolls."

It is a grave matter. Any person
having a complaint against a solicitor
in reference to his professional conduct
is supposed to forward it to the incorporated Law society, the body which rules the legal profession. His private life doesn't trouble the society unless
he is convicted of a criminal offense.

Having received the complaint and
evidence in support of it, the society
brings the matter before a divisional
court composed of two or three of the most distinguished judges on the bench. The solicitor is given every chance of defending himself, but if,

after hearing the evidence, the judge
decide that he is guilty his name
"struck from the rolls." Should offense be a minor one, caused by misunderstanding than fraud,
solicitor may be suspended for a riod and allowed to practice again
the expiration of it.

A solicitor cannot be "struck off
rolls" for negligence or bankruptcy, client's remedy in the first case is to bring an action against him for d-ages. Bankruptcy is adjudged to misfortune and therefore is not fessional misconduct."—London
Bits.

Most Important.

"The customs inspector evidently alized that we were important people."

"So?"
"Yes; he passed some baggage hardly a glance, but when he came as he was careful to go through evthing."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
